MODIFICATION OF BOND SALE
CONTRACT IS SECURED BY NEW STATE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION

Amount of Bonds Required To Be Delivered Immediately Will Be Reduced By New Agreement.

SEE BETTER SALE POSSIBLE

Administration Believes It Can Save Much Money in New Deals in Future.

Modification of the bond sale contract negotiated by the retiring league industrial commission just before leaving office has been secured by the new industrial commission. Details of a new agreement were completed at noon today.

Through negotiation of a new agreement the industrial commission believes it will be able to save a great deal of money to the state, it is stated. Although it is not satisfied with the deal made by the league commission yet, it believes that much has been accomplished in the new agreement.

The league administration contracted to sell a total of $12,300,000 of bonds to Spitzer, Rorick and Company.

Under the new agreement $6,100,000 of this amount is withdrawn from contract and if necessary to issue later can be sold in competitive market for a premium, the new administration believes.

Withdrawn from the former contract are $4,500,000 real estate bonds $1,000,000 mill and elevator and $600,000 home builders.

Another feature of the new agreement, which was concluded with a representative of Spitzer, Rorick and Company, is that bonds will not be delivered until real estate loans are ready to be made or money is needed in mill and elevator construction or for cleaning up debts of homebuilders association. Under the former agreement a great portion of bonds would be delivered before money could be used thereby causing the state to pay a great deal of additional interest money.

The new contract to be drawn up will be directly between industrial commission and the bond company, instead of through the Bank of North Dakota.

Five hundred thousand dollars of real estate bonds will be taken immediately at par and 5-4 interest. The league commission had agreed to sell this amount in its first contract at 5 per cent discount, it is stated. Loans will be made immediately from this amount.

Under the new agreement the home building series, mill and elevator and real estate bonds are sold at par.

Offers to purchase North Dakota bonds at par and at five and half per cent interest have been made recently and the bond market has eased greatly, it is stated. The former industrial commission's real estate bond contract extended over a period of 14 months. Within this period, if new bonds are issued, the state administration believes they can be sold at more advantageous terms.

CRAWFORD AND DENAULT NAMED TO POSITIONS

Former Will Be Secretary of Industrial Commission; Latter in Bank

EXPLANATION IS GIVEN

Lewis Crawford, of Sentinel Butte, former member of the state board of regents has been appointed secretary of the industrial commission, and W. B. DeNault, of Jamestown, will be manager of the farm loan department of the Bank of North Dakota, it is announced today.

Mr. Crawford has been engaged in business and farming at Sentinel Butte and was a member of the first board of regents. Regarding the selection of Mr. DeNault, Governor Nestos made the following statement:

"Have just noticed the statement in yesterday's Courier-News that A. B. DeNault had been asked to become Director General of the Bank of North Dakota and stating that he was the representative of the Wells-Dickey Company and that it was expected to kill the Rural Credits or Land Loan Department by the first of the year. This is incorrect and unfair in every particular. It is W. B. DeNault who has been urged to become the head of the Bank of North Dakota with the understanding that he was to become the manager of the Rural Credits Department. He has declined to be come the head of the bank but has finally consented, upon our urgent request, to reorganize for efficiency the Rural Credits or Farm Loan Department of the bank. He is not the representative of the Wells-Dickey Company, as stated, and he has not worked for the company for the past seven years. He is an experienced and capable real estate loan man and this administration believes that the men who understand a business can give the state the best service in that business and are more likely to produce results of value to the people than those who are not experienced in that particular line of business.

"Mr. DeNault is careful, conscientious and conservative in his business methods and I am confident that he will establish a real loan business for the farmers of our state. We do not believe that the loan business should be a charity institution or a bureau for distributing political favors and the only ones who will be disappointed are those who are looking for a chance to sell their land to the state by making loans for the full value of the lands. I am confident that in his administration of that department the conditions found last fall, when it was discovered that 90 loans had been made for more than the full assessed value of the land, making a heavy loss to the farmers of our state inevitable, will be impossible under his administration of the Rural Credits Department, but the people who want to make real estate loans in conformity with law; viz: for not more than one half of the value of the land, will have a splendid chance under the new administration.

"In order to have an extra check on values, the new administration also proposes that with each loan application there shall be filed the auditor's certificate as to the assessed value of the land for the past three years.

"I believe that the state's loan business should be conducted on the same sound conservative basis as one would use in building a private loan business, and I am positive that Mr. DeNault will develop just that sort of a real estate loan business for the people of our state. I am very glad indeed that Mr. DeNault has consented to serve and I am sure that his appointment and his conduct of this department will meet with the approval of the farmers of our state."

Plans To Be Made To Stabilize Foreign Exchange in London Meeting

Washington, Dec. 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Decision has been reached by the federal reserve board to send an adviser to the forthcoming conference of foreign bankers called by the reparations committee to discuss exchange stabilization. It was said officially today at the treasury.

The board officials said has signified its willingness to be present at the conference which will consider specific methods of preventing sudden exchange fluctuations resulting from the January payment of the Germany indemnity. The date and place of meeting of the conference has not been communicated to American officials who regard the whole matter still in the form of a proposal.

State Board of Land Commissioners Approve Proposal

The state board of land commissioners has authorized the sale of $210,000 of Victory Bonds to provide additional funds for the department which makes farm loans and purchases bond issues of public corporations. The sale is conditional upon receiving par value of them.

Treasurer Steen has taken steps to ascertain if par value can be obtained for them in the east. The bonds have not yet reached par on the open market, and are registered bonds.

An appeal from the order of Governor Frazier removing John O. Grubb and H. A. Kirkle, commissioners of Burke county, will be taken to the district court. Notice of intention to appeal has been filed on by Secretary of State.

The petitioners, who have retained attorneys, will allege that Governor Frazier gave but three days notice for the hearing on the charges against them and that there was not time to prepare and make the trip to Bismarck. Therefore the commissioners did not appear.

FRANCE WANTS

GERMAN REGIME

Mark Goes Up Under Prospect of British Trade Negotiations

SITUATION IS INTENSE

French Would Create Rhineland For Allied Exploitation

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Paris, Dec. 1.—A receivership for Germany as a bankrupt nation with an autonomous Rhineland to be exploited by the Allies for reparation purposes is likely to be proposed by France as an alternative to the moratorium or reparation plan suggested by Great Britain it was reported today in official circles.

MARK GOES UP

London, Dec. 1.—The German mark underwent a further significant recovery on the London exchange. Heavy buying was reported to have taken the pound sterling as against yesterday's close of 980.

The recovery was assisted by optimism regarding the negotiations between Dr. Walter Rathenau, former German minister of reconstruction and the financial heads of the British government in regard to Germany's reparation payments and the possibility of a moratorium.

The decline in the value of the German mark, normally worth 23.3 cents before the war, to a fraction of a cent and, perhaps, "the vanishing point," greatly complicates the financial outlook of every nation in the world.

The "tobogganing" of the mark has been attributed by German financiers to the forced payments on the Allied reparations of $33,750,000,000 while others see in their almost negligible value the result of unsound finance, cut-throat export sales and the rush of the German masses to the stores to exchange their almost worthless currency for any and every kind of commodity. German printing presses have been so busy putting out paper marks (10,915,500,000 were issued in one recent month) that some of the currency has appeared engraved on only one side.

Gold Low

It has been said that Germany does not possess one-half of one per cent of the gold required to meet her tons and tons of paper obligations. Representatives of the government of France, as an indication of this, recently arranged terms with Germany at a conference in Weisbaden by which Germany agreed to deliver seven billion gold marks worth of building material. German bankers have repeatedly urged the necessity for an international conference and the declaration of a three-year moratorium to enable Germany to recover her equilibrium.

Many Allied economists, however, maintain that the depreciation of the mark has been artificially brought about by the machination and trickery of German financiers. They point out that Germany is much more prosperous in comparison with other European countries and that, while there is a great contrast between the extremes of wealth and poverty in Germany, speculators are making millions and nearly everyone is at work even if at low wages.

The sub-committee, known as the Reparations Commission of the Reparations Commission, has gone to Berlin to investigate whether German marks really have any value. In event of finding them worthless, all foreign trading with Germany conducted on a paper currency basis, will cease and a crisis as will necessitate new action by the Allied powers. Prior to the war, German marks in New York were third in importance in foreign exchange transactions, the British pound sterling and the French franc being first and second, respectively.

Reparation Payments

Since Germany agreed to the Allied reparations terms last May the following debts and amounts were fixed for payments:

June 1—1,000,000,000 gold marks to the Reparations Commission.

July 1—Delivery to the commission of bonds for 2,000,000,000 gold marks.

July 15—First quarterly payment of annual sum of 2,000,000,000 gold marks.

August 1—First quarterly payment of the 25 per cent of the value of German exports.

Oct. 1—Second quarterly payment of annual sum of 2,000,000,000 gold marks.

Nov. 1—Delivery to the Reparations Commission of bonds for 25,000,000,000 gold marks, also bonds without coupons attached for 25,000,000,000 gold marks.

Nov. 15—Second quarterly payment of the 25 per cent of the value of German exports.

The Guaranties Commission now in Berlin is composed of M. Mauriere, of France, its chairman, and M. Belmont, vice chairman. Other members are Sir H. G. Loxley, Great Britain; Signor Damico, Italy; M. Sekiba, Japan; M. Tschirch, Yugoslavia; and Roland W. Haydon, United States.

The duties of the Commission are described under eight heads as follows:

"First To insure enforcement of Articles 24 and 218 of the Treaty of Versailles.

"Second To supervise the collection of German customs, export taxes."

FRENCH BLUEBEARD SENTENCED TO DEATH FOR MURDER OF TEN WOMEN

(By Associated Press.)

Versailles, Dec. 1.—Henri Desire Landru, the Bluebeard of France, convicted of the murder of ten women and one boy was sentenced today to the guillotine. He smiled his last night for the first time since his trial opened. A flickering expression of amusement crossed his face as he listened to the words of Judge Gilbert sending him to the guillotine for the most heinous crimes in French jurisprudence.

"Thank you gentlemen," he said, "as he boursied his weatherbeaten hat in a mocking bow to the jury." Then he disappeared through the small door leading to the Versailles jail.

While the verdict was being awaited, the convicted slayer of ten women and a boy spoke words of encouragement to his counsel who tired and worn after his strenuous efforts to save his client from the death penalty was on the verge of collapse.

Landru lured the women to his villa under the promise of marriage. The prosecution charged that he killed them and disposed of their bodies by burning them in a small stove after first cutting them into small pieces.

The motive ascribed to Landru for his many crimes was that of robbery.

EX-GOVERNOR IS ENJOYING FARM
LIFE ONCE MORE

Retires To Big Farm In Pembina County on Thanksgiving Day

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Hoople, N. D., Dec. 1.—When Governor Lynn J. Frazier retired to his farm in Pembina county, Thanksgiving day, he became the second of the living ex-governors of North Dakota to turn from the first office in the state to the exclusive pursuits of farm life.

The other ex-governor, who has lived his years since retirement as a tiller of the soil is by strange coincidence or contrast, the first of the living ex-governors, Roger Allin of Park River. Although of advanced age, Mr. Allin still is in active charge of his farm.

Governor Frazier retire from office to a farm of 480 acres of the famous Red River Valley land, widely heralded as the greatest wheat land on the face of the earth. It is the farm his father secured when he followed the early settlers into North Dakota and settled in this country, the first where the whites found a home in the state. Being in the Red River Valley, the farm is of course a wheat producer, but Mr. Frazier early started to break away from the exclusive wheat program of the North Dakota farms and one of his last acts before becoming governor at the time of his first election was to dispose of a bumper crop of potatoes.

The Frazier farm is well improved with a seven-room house, barns and outbuildings. There was hardly a break in the routine of the farm when Mr. Frazier left it for Bismarck and there was hardly a break when he returned, for him for years before he was governor has been in charge in his absence. They only resumed the relations that existed before the election of 1916 changed the routine of home farm life to that of political and state activity.

Deaths, which have had no small part in the life course of the late governor, have added to his cares as a farmer and in addition to the land which he holds himself, he has charge of the 160-acre estate of a sister, held in trust for a niece and nephew. This means that the former governor is now in charge of a farm that if thrown into one block would be a mile square.

Between the two former ex-governors, six other men are alive who have held the highest office in the gift of the people of North Dakota. In the order in which they held their office they are:

Joseph H. Devine of Mandan. Recently head of the State Training School for Boys at Mandan.

Frederick B. Francher, the two years of whose term were the last years of the century. He is a banker in California.

Frank B. White, 1900-04. Now United States Treasurer.

E. Y. Sarles, 1905-06. Banker, lumberman and gentleman farmer at Hillsboro, N. D.

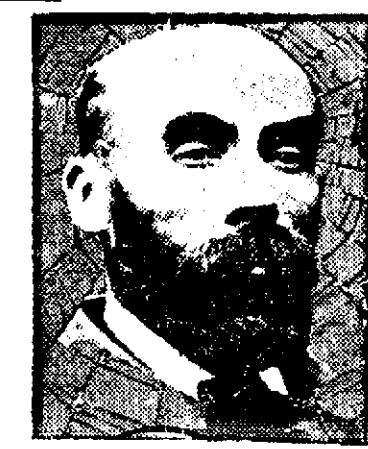

John Burck, 1907-14. In banking business in New York City.

L. B. Hanna, real estate, loans and farming, Fargo, N. D.

Mr. Devine was governor but six months, filling out the term of Frank A. Briggs, deceased in office.

Ulster Refuses To Enter All Ireland Parliament

(By Associated Press.)

London, Dec. 1.—The possibility of renewed bloodshed in Ireland confronts the British Isles in consequence of the virtual collapse of peace negotiations which have proceeded under a truce for the last five months.

The Sinn Fein has stood firm on the demand for an all Ireland parliament on the basis of settlement proposed and at the same time refuse to concede allegiance to the British crown. Ulster has refused point blank to scrap her own parliament and to enter an all Ireland parliament under present conditions on the ground that she will come directly under the control of the numerically superior south.

The government officials are bending every effort to seek some unexplored avenue of negotiations and it is believed that all possibilities of a settlement have been exhausted during the lengthy parleys. As to how long the truce will last under present conditions there is no indication. The Sinn Feiners have expressed the view that there will be no formal denunciation of the pact by either side and this leads to the belief that any spark of combat set off in Ireland with the peace movement deadlocked will start the conflagration anew.

SALARY METHOD
CHANGE TALKED
BY OFFICIALS

State Administration Would Make Them Same in All Departments

REDUCTION IS ORDERED

Equalization of salaries paid to employees of the same class in various state offices is to be undertaken by the state administration, through the state auditing board, it is indicated, although no official statement is forthcoming.

Salaries in some departments, notably the board of administration and state hall department, are fixed by the department heads, while salaries of employees in most state offices are fixed by the legislature. It has been found, it is said, that there is considerable difference in salaries of employees of the same class, the salaries fixed in the departments usually being higher than those fixed by the legislature.

The state auditing board—composed of the Governor, Attorney-General, Treasurer, State Examiner and Commissioner of Insurance—is to be the medium through which the state administration hopes to make a considerable saving on the state payroll in many instances. All bills must be approved by the auditing board before warrants are drawn, giving this board a check on expenditures.

The first action of the board, which now is controlled by Independents, was to require the workmen's compensation bureau to submit all payments of salaries, etc., to the board. Conference on the equalization of salaries are expected to follow.

The board reduced the salary of Joseph Coghlan, law librarian to the legislative appropriation of $2,000 a year. A statutory enactment a few years previous placed the salary at $2,500, but the legislature last winter reduced the salary. The higher salary had been paid. The board decided that the legislative appropriation legally should obtain.

Six persons were cut off the payroll by the administration when resignations of tax supervisors were asked for by the tax commissioner in compliance with a request from Governor Nestos. Other reductions will be made from time to time as conditions warrant.

R. H. Thistlethwaite, statistician of the department of agriculture, left yesterday. His place has not been filled.

RECOGNITION OF "OPEN SHOP" ON ALL AMERICAN RAILROADS IS FORECAST UNDER NEW RULES

Economies and Increased Efficiency To Save Roads Some $50,000,000
400,000 MEN ARE AFFECTED

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Chicago, Dec. 7.—Economies in operation and increased efficiency, estimated to reach $50,000,000 a year, and recognition of the "open shop" on all American railroads were forecast in the promulgation of revised working rules governing railroad shop employees by the United States Railroad Labor Board.

The new rules become effective today, December 1, and take jurisdiction over approximately 400,000 men immediately, although a still larger number will be affected when the normal traffic conditions are restored.

Far reaching changes in the rules, which supplant the National Agreement made during federal control, were designed to afford a basis for permanent stability in the railroad shops of the country and were declared by members of the Labor Board to be the most important work yet done by the board and of much greater significance than any decision in the past, even including wage scale adjustments.

Large Economies.
Large economies are expected to result from revision of the classification rules, which were made more elastic, and hereafter will permit members of certain crafts to do minor jobs previously done by members of other crafts. Statisticians attached to the Labor Board estimated that economies in operation, increased efficiency and larger output, would approximate $50,000,000 a year.

Provision for the representation of minorities who may have grievances is another important item of the new rules. Under the National Agreement, negotiation for employees was placed almost wholly in the hands of labor organizations, with the results that the railroads and many industrial and civic institutions declared that the agreement forced a closed union shop on the roads. Nonunion men found it impracticable to attempt to bring their grievances before the board and as the rules worked out, union officials handled the cases, taking their precedent from the National Agreement negotiations in which union officials acted for the employees in drawing up the agreement under federal control.

"The principle of the open shop established by the new rules," a statement by board members said, "will in fact, be more theoretical than practical at the present time, since a large majority of the railroad shops are unionized and the existing unions are recognized by the board and by the Transportation Act as representative of the majority."

Old Rules Preserved.
"Most of the older working rules, sanctioned by the experience of years, are preserved in full effect. Many of the more rigid rules, however, were considerably relaxed in favor of the roads, although the recognized rights of the men are fully protected and the principle of collective bargaining and union recognition is retained, as contemplated by the Transportation Act."

The rules controversy dates back to May 1, 1920, when the railroads emerged from government control. Strenuous objections to the National Agreement were made in a hearing which began January 10, 1921. After several months of testimony, the rules were referred back to the individual roads with instruction to negotiate such new rules as they could with their employees to replace the federal government rules.

Numerous rules were thus agreed upon individual roads, but on no road was it possible to draft an entire new set. The rules disagreed upon were then sent back to the Labor Board and the rules promulgated today will replace any such rules not agreed upon by the roads and their employees. In any case where a rule has been agreed upon by the carrier and its employees, that rule governs, even though the Labor Board rule may be entirely different.

The majority of the changes effected by the new rules is in the classification of the work to be performed by the various crafts. Almost without exception these classifications are made more elastic under previous agreements with the shop crafts, including the National Agreement. It has been the custom to define in detail the various types of work belonging to each craft.

The carriers have complained that the National Agreement set up in such minute detail the classification of duties that work not requiring specialized skill in any craft was assigned exclusively to a particular craft. For example work not requiring a mechanic's skill was assigned to a skilled mechanic, thus making efficient and economical operation impossible, according to the railroads.

Broaden Scope.
The rules effective today broaden the scope of each craft's work. The machinist working on running repairs may connect or disconnect any wiring, coupling or pipe connections necessary to repair machinery or equipment. This work was previously assigned to electricians and sheet metal workers only.

Under the new rules, engineers, firemen and crewmen are not prohibited from making such repairs to equipment on the lines of the road as they are qualified to perform. The new rules thus allow train operatives to perform repair work even though it is ordinarily considered shop mechanic's work.

Boiler makers' helpers under the new rules are given the job of removing and replacing grates. Under the National Agreement all grate rigging work was assigned to journeymen boiler makers.

The classification of the work of the sheet metal workers, electrical workers and car men has been changed to allow some of the work previously performed by them exclusively to be done by their helpers and to mechanics in other crafts, where the needs of the service require it. Under the National Agreement car men were exclusively assigned to wrecking crews. Under the new rules, wrecking crews exclusive of engineers, will be composed of carmen, where sufficient men are available but when needed, men of any class may be taken as additional members of wrecking crews.

Another important change affecting car men is that which allows common laborers to dismantle wooden freight cars hereafter. Under the National Agreement, only qualified carpenters were allowed to do this work. About 68 per cent of the country's freight cars are built of wood. The new rule will permit employees getting $3.25 to $5.00 a day to do work previously required to be done by car men receiving $5.84 a day.

An entirely new rule promulgated by the board, for the first time, creates a new rule promulgated by the board, for the first time, creates a new type of apprentice to be known as "special apprentice." Previously there have been only two kinds of apprentices in the skilled shop crafts, regular and helpers' apprentices. Regular apprentices are youths entering the service between the ages of 16 and 21 years and serving four years apprenticeship, and helper apprentices are those apprentices selected from the ranks of the helpers. Special apprentices are to be selected from young men between the ages of 18 and 26, who have had a technical school education, and they will be required to serve only three years apprenticeship before becoming journeymen mechanics.

Provide Standards.
Rules which required certain standards of force and equipment to be maintained for doing certain kinds of work have been modified and some discontinued, thus eliminating the expense of maintaining unnecessary men on the rolls. Other rules have been changed to allow the use of forces assigned to particular classes of work on other work, when there is no work of their particular class to be performed.

Many of the rules are highly technical in character. Much time was spent on the rules regarding electrical railroads, which at present apply only to a few roads like the Pennsylvania and New York Central but which will become of increasing importance as the electrification of the steam lines proceeds.

The six shop crafts' employees involved are the carmen, sheet metal workers, machinists, blacksmiths, boilermakers and electrical workers. They were represented at the rules hearings by the following organizations: Brotherhood Railway Carmen of America, International Alliance of Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers, International Association of Machinists, International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders and Helpers of America, and the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. All these are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and are enrolled in the Railway Employees Department of that organization.

The national agreement, supplanted today by the new rules, was entered into with the employees by the United States Railroad Administration September 20, 1919. From the first it was strongly criticised by the railroad managements and others because they contended it imposed uneconomic loads, limited the discretion and control of the management and greatly increased the cost of operation. The railroads also complained that they had no voice in making the National Agreement which they declared was "wished on them" by the Railroad Administration. The employees have maintained that a very large part of the National Agreement had been put into effect on various railroads, prior to federal control, by the voluntary act of the managements, and that it fairly represented current enlightened thought of the carriers and employees as to working conditions and rules.

In two previous decisions the board disposed of twenty-four shop craft rules mainly concerning over-time pay. Today's decision practically completes the rules for these crafts, with the exception of a few minor matters on which an agreement is probable. These the board has referred back to the roads and the employees for settlement by them.

ed to vamp him. He didn't vamp well at all. Even when he was the honor guest at Nan's next house party he was slow in thawing out. Finally he began to slip—and then it happened! He proposed! Nan accepted him and in a few minutes changed her mind in front of the guests.

"That's where she erred," She didn't know that she hooked a cave-man. That night he abducted her and whisked her away to the mountains. After roughing it a bit, she finally decided that a pair of cave-man arms made a better resting place than a flock of lavender scented sofa pillows. The program also includes an Aesop Fable, "The Lioness and the Bugs," Kiograms and Topics of the Day.

Red Cross Doing Much Relief Work In Burleigh County

Red Cross and social workers who are in charge of the relief work being done in the county wish to make further announcement that all persons are urged to report all cases in the county where help is needed to the Red Cross headquarters, 16 Eltinge block, Bismarck, or notify Miss Kurling.

It is desirable that it be made clear that people who are receiving city or county aid are not eligible for Red Cross aid. All cases without a provider, such as widows with children, or cases where the father is disabled are cases that the Red Cross will handle.

The Red Cross has done much to relieve the poverty in parts of the county and with the help of all residents in the county they plan to take care of all those deserving of aid.

War Poster Was Lent By Historical Society

The striking war poster which was on the stage of the Civic Auditorium during the reception of Marshal Foch Sunday was lent by the Library of the North Dakota Historical Society. The poster is one of the most interesting of the collection which Dr. Gilmore, curator of the society, has made special effort to obtain. It represents a stalwart and determined "poilu" standing at defense with gun in his hands. In the yellow background is inscribed the motto "On ne passe pas." (they shall not pass), which embodied the spirit in which Marshal Foch twice kept the German forces from crossing the Marne.

ENJOY LEGION DINNER

Over 150 Legion and ex-service men enjoyed the Turkey dinner given by the War Mothers and the Legion Auxiliary at the Legion hall last evening, at 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. William Falconer, chairman of the Auxiliary and Mrs. Robert Orr, chairman of the War Mothers' committees, were in charge. The tables were beautiful in their decorations of red and green, the color scheme being completed by the red candles which were used on the tables. Following the dinner the evening was spent in dancing. Members of the Legion voted their hearty thanks to the War Mothers and Auxiliary who have assisted it in many ways since its organization.

(Established 1873)

THE STRANGE LURE
One of the wisest Americans that ever lived was Phineas T. Barnum, the circus man. He was the first big advertiser.

Barnum, son of a village tavern-keeper, was a wizard at psychology—the study of human nature. Socrates would have enjoyed talking to him—and probably learned something new.

In 1834 Barnum heard of Joyce Heath, alleged negro nurse of George Washington. He bought her for $1000, took her around on exhibition and cleaned up a lot of money.

His next venture was taking hold of a complete failure, the American Museum in New York. It ceased to be a failure the day Barnum bought it. He announced that the museum had acquired a woolly horse, a white negress, a combination of fish and monkey called the "Japanese mermaid," also General Tom Thumb, the famous dwarf.

Did people flock to see these freaks? They did! Why, it's interesting even to read about them, after the lapse of 80 years.

The secret of Barnum's success was simple. Realizing that this world at its best is rather dull, he intuitively caught the idea that people will flock to see the unusual.

A healthy baby, born to parents you don't know, does not interest you. But if you are told that the baby has six teeth, you sit up and take notice.

Many shrewd men have recognized this psychological truth and profited by it. That is, they have opened the gates to fortune by doing the customary "old stuff" in a slightly different way. At this trick, politicians especially are expert, each election-time trotting out the old bunko with a new coat of paint like Barnum's white elephant, which was exposed when the rain washed the whitewash off during parade.

Take what you are doing for a living. If you can figure out how to do it in a different, more interesting way, success is yours.

Barnum, though he had interesting exhibits, knew that no one would hear of them unless he advertised. Among other kinds of advertising, he invented the billboard.

But his greatest ad was his circus parade, winding up with a calliope that rang in your ears for weeks, to keep the circus in your memory. No conservative band for Barnum.

Barnum died in 1891. His circus went on. Finally it consolidated with Ringling Bros.—the Dingdong Brothers, as they are called in the sawdust ring. During the 1920 season, the parade was eliminated. That must have had an effect on the cash register, for Charlie Ringling announces that the parade will be restored in 1922, grander than ever, to recover lost ground.

There's a tip to advertisers! Keep everlasting-ly at it.

Hail Discovery of Bacteriophage
Discovery of a super-microbe, which attacks and kills deadly disease germs in the human blood, is claimed by Dr. F. d'Herelle, of the Pasteur Institute of Paris. He names it the "bacteriophage," or bacteria-eater.

The pet prey of the bacteriophage are the germs of typhoid fever, bubonic plague, dysentery and hemorrhagic septicaemia. The bacteria-eater goes after them like a cat after a mouse. It aids the blood's white corpuscles, natural attacked of germs.

Greatest value of this discovery, says Dr. d'Herelle, is that it can be used to stop epidemics. So far, his work is experimental. Time must pass before the bacteria-eater can be bought at the drug store. But it, along with serums now in use, indicate that man's battle with the germs will be a successful one. Nature provides an antidote for everything.

ROADS
Jobs for 150,000 men, building 6261 miles of roads, are expected to follow recent passage of the Federal Highway Act.

The cost of the new roads will be about $12,000 a mile.

The nation's investment in highways is many times as big as the investment in railroads.

With the national government sharing with states the expense of road construction, we may be headed for the time when Uncle Sam will take over the main interstate highways, controlling them from Washington with uniform laws.

SKUNKS
Go easy with the rifle this winter, when you see a skunk. Scientists pass the word that skunks will help destroy the corn borer, destructive insect invading the corn belt.
Women seem to love the skunk's furs. Outside of that, he has few friends. He may exterminate the corn borer, but many will philosophize that the price is more than the gain is worth.

AGE
Spry Mrs. Frieda Katz, 107 years old, stepped off three old-time dances in Hartford, Conn. Said it didn't make her tired, which looks all right in print. But every old lady in the country knows that Frieda groaned when she awakened next morning.
You can't cheat Father Time and Mother Nature. The human body always is on the downgrade after 50. Handle with care.

HEADACHE
A proud home brewer took a sample of his beer to Dr. J. M. Doran, chief prohibition chemist in Washington, D. C.
"It must be at least 10 per cent," said he, "because it leaves you with an awful head in the morning."
Dr. Doran took the home brew into his laboratory, tested it and found that it was not properly made and contained no alcohol at all. But it was full of ptomaines.
The worst stuff isn't peddled by bootleggers.

EDITORIAL REVIEW
Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

IS CITY GOVERNMENT SLIPPING?
The Springfield Republican, after looking over the results of municipal elections in large cities from coast to coast, declares pessimistically that city government in America appears to be slipping. These are its grounds for the conclusion:

New York City, where Tammany has gained complete control;

Buffalo, where a brewer, on a platform of "Down With the Volstead Act," was elected mayor over Mayor George S. Buck, a fine, efficient, high type of municipal executive;

Detroit, where the people have returned Mayor James Couzens to office, indorsing his street railway policy and voting millions in bonds to further the plan;

Cleveland, where Mayor Fitzgerald has been defeated by Fred Kohler, once famous as the "golden rule chief of police" under Baker, and later ousted after a scandal, but now elected, along with adoption of a city manager charter effective two years hence;

Indianapolis, where former Mayor Shanks has been re-elected;

And San Francisco, where Schmitz has been elected mayor—Schmitz of the old Abe Ruef days.

The venerated Republican regards these acts of the six electorates as evidence that city government is slipping. Maybe so—maybe so. And yet account should be taken of distinct improvement in governmental machinery, by means of which everywhere—except in New York, which is another story, anyway—the people are really in better control of their city halls. Buffalo may look bad—and yet Buffalo, even with its commission form of government, feels it has far better administration than under the old boss and council.

Detroit may be obsessed with municipal ownership—and yet Detroit has gained considerably in administrative facility, while it has been doubling in population and striving to bring its municipal utilities up toward its needs, a process which may account for its readiness to take on larger municipal enterprises, so long as it has confidence in the machinery of government that must go with them.

Cleveland may or may not have slipped in picking Fred Kohler as mayor; for it has found there are flaws in the model charter machinery it set up a decade ago, and perhaps has concluded, from its disorganized police department and other administrative lapses, that it must keep on modernizing its city hall machinery.

Indianapolis and San Francisco, too, have made some gains in governmental agencies, so that it is possible Shanks and Schmitz, bound by improved charter requirements, may serve their constituents better than in their previous administrations.

Kansas City, Mo., has voted to have a new charter framed, and has elected a commission to frame it; this, too, in the face of a hard fight by men who feared loss of political power.

The Republican should take heart. And if it is unable to find food for reassurance in these six cities, let it contemplate Minneapolis. Here we have time-honored machinery of government which ought to be after the Springfield Republican's own heart. To be sure, we can't increase the size of our police force, and we can't have street lights downtown except by taking extraordinary measures, and we can't be sure of certain needed agencies of education, and we can't catch up with our paving needs, and we can't do lots of things which any self-respecting city should be doing.
Is our city government slipping? Perish the thought!—Minneapolis Journal.

"MATRIMONY—IT'S A PROFESSION"
BY ALICE ROHE.
New York, Dec. 1.—Marriage and children—especially American children—I have just heard these things discussed by Winifred James, British authoress, whose "Letters to My Son" were a sensation in current British literature.
Of marriage this writer says:
"If it were made more of an art, if it were recognized as one of the finest professions, we should have a minimum of domestic unhappiness."
"Train girls for marriage. Give marriage the same attention as stenography, painting, sculpture."
It is a divorce that strikes at the heart of the family and society as much as the fact that boys and girls are brought up with no sense of responsibility toward life.
Every woman should understand home making and housekeeping. Even though she never has to work I have no intention of staying as a cook or a scullery maid—yet I could do either.
Teach 'em to look.
Girls should understand home economics not only for marriage but for themselves if they remain single. It isn't enough to give them a side course at school in domestic science. They should be trained to the fullest responsibility of life as housewife and mother.
And regarding American children—
"There's no restraint on them when they must need it. There's nothing else in the world that doesn't have its season except the American child—it bursts into bloom constantly and prematurely."
"The less you give a child, the greater the thrill of possession—the fuller later life will be. But the American child has and knows everything."
Winifred James in private life is Mrs. Henry De Jan. But her "Letters to My Son," an exquisite study in maternal love and comprehension, was written before her marriage!

THE HEN
(By Florence Borner, Bismarck, N. D.)
Let others sing of nightingale, robin and of wren,
I'll grab my live and sing a lay to the domestic hen;
She isn't much to look at, and she doesn't put on style,
But she's got those other birdies skinned about a half mile.
Why, just to hear her chuckle in her gentle, henlike way,
To let me know that there will be a fresh laid egg today,
Fills up my soul so full of joy that I can fairly whoop,
'Cause soon I'll hear her cackle from the old red chicken coop.
Fried, boiled or scrambled, eggs are fine, and as for chicken, my!
Who of us on earth can resist a home made chicken pie?
With gravy swimming on the top, and baked a healthy tan.
It is a dish fit for a king—or any other man.
So you may keep your nightingale, your robin and your wren,
I'll have for mine that bird divine, the old domestic hen;
For of what other bird on earth can these true words be said?
Altho she lived a useful life she's better when she's dead.

"MY WIFE IS ARTIFICIAL"—NATURE IS TO BLAME, SAYS WINONA WILCOX
BY WINONA WILCOX
Man has learned to defeat Nature in many ways. He walks on the bottom of the sea, soars above the highest mountain peaks, lights the midnight to rival the noonday.
But in love he remains what Nature intended him to be—a dupe.
Love blinds him to the flaws in the beloved for a long time before he complains—something like this:
"My wife is artificial." This particular letter comes from a husband of a year. "I have to look twice to find the dainty sweet-tempered girl I married." Then follows half a column of criticism which might have been dictated by Adam. The wife is "to blame," the young husband honestly believes.
But he is wrong. Nature is at fault for the bride's sad slump.
This is a scientific fact and if it could be impressed upon the minds of lovers, it would save a considerable part of the first-year domestic misery.
The period of courtship is a period of sex manifestations. A girl in love will powder the lily and apply rouge to the rose. A man will parade his opinions and work wonders with his voice, causing it to thrill with emotion—but never to betray impatience.
Both act unconsciously. The girl is no more to blame than the moon for its halo on a misty night. The man is no more responsible than the western sky for its glory when the sun is setting. These are little bits of nature, but one may mean rain tomorrow and the other a torrid day.
Science has proved that a fuller crimson comes upon the robin's breast in the mating season. But science forgets to say that the brightness of the bird's plumage does not keep its gay promise. It lasts only half the summer.
In the same way, the unconscious sex manifestation of lovers imply twice too much. They are a kind of involuntary lying.
The bride does not stay as lovely as she seemed. Perhaps her first baby steals her freshness. The man becomes irritable. Perhaps his new responsibility for the support of a

PENRHYN STANLAWS
BY JAMES W. DEAN
New York, Dec. 1.—There are no really beautiful women in the movies on the stage.
Penrhyn Stanlaws told me that.
And he ought to know a beautiful woman. He has drawn and painted hundreds of them.
"There are no real beauties on the stage or screen because no actresses are ladies."
What! I jumped out of my chair. "What do you mean?"
"That a woman of refinement suppresses her emotions. An actress expresses much of herself. If she were a 'perfect lady' she could not be a great actress. Bernhardt, Rejane, none of the great actresses, were 'perfect ladies'."
Stanlaws is now a photoplay director. His last picture was an adaptation of Barrie's "The Little Minister," with Betty Compson, known as a screen beauty, in the leading role.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts
Nancy sat in the middle of a queer circle, for all except Nick were ugly, misshapen gnomes of every age, that is, of every age over a hundred years. When a gnome is born, you know, he is already a hundred years old, and so, of course, quite grown up. She couldn't help wishing that they wouldn't stare so, for they were peering at her with unblinking grotesque eyes. "But then," she thought, "it's just what one may expect. No doubt they've had no bringing up at all and have never been told that it is rude to stare at company." Self-invited company to be sure, she and Nick were, but company just the same.
The little gnome who had opened the gate nodded at her finally when he'd waited and waited, and Nancy, busy with her thoughts, hadn't said a word. "Why don't you begin?" he demanded. "Don't you know how to play 'truth'? You told me you did, in the passage."
Nancy started. "Oh, y—," she was about to say, when Nick put a warning finger to his lips. She had almost said the forbidden word. "I beg your pardon," she began again. "I didn't mean to keep you waiting. How many questions may I ask?"
"As many as you like," answered the gnome, whose name was Crookabone. "Only you must stop when someone tells you an untruth. Then he must pay you a forfeit. I'll be judge later on and impose penalties for fibbing."
Nancy smiled approvingly. I'm glad you think so much of truth telling," she said. "It's the most important thing in the world."
"Oh, as for that," answered Crookabone. "This isn't the world. This is Fairyland and with us it is a matter of wits. We tell the truth without telling anything at all."
"What a queer speech!" thought Nancy.

OL' CUPID WON'T BE DISARMED SHE STEERS ERRING YOUTHS RIGHT!

N. Y. Detective Sergeant Gives Them Another Chance

BY ALICE ROHE.

New York, Dec. 1.—Active detective sergeant, first grade, highest ranking officer in the department, assistant commissioner, woman's precinct, City of New York.

That is Mrs. Isabella Goodwin, and no man can go higher than this active detective sergeantship.

Twenty-five years' active service on the New York police force, that is a record, indeed, for man or woman.

Promoted Nine Years Ago.

And this quiet, unassuming, kindly woman, whose heart responds to every pathetic case of social wrong, received her high sergeant's rank nine years ago.

When you enter the woman's precinct, you are struck at once by seeing regular headquarters with the exception that women, instead of men, occupy the posts.

Past the court room there is a fine reading and reception room and further back there is the office of the commissioner—Mrs. George Loft. Upstairs there is a dormitory where girls in trouble are kept over night. There is a sanitary kitchen and a hall where the lectures are given for the thirty police women, all trained social welfare workers.

But the force that impresses you most of all is the quiet woman sitting at the desk by the door.

Stop and watch her a moment.

First a small boy is hauled in by an irate man lamenting broken windows.

Asks Another Chance.

Mrs. Goodwin talks things over, impresses the heinousness of the offense to the boy and gets the man's permission to give him another chance to be good.

An excited Greek father enters—he wants his daughter to leave the factory where she is working for eighteen dollars a week and stop learning American freedom and come home and marry a man of his choice. A meeting is arranged for the next day between father and daughter to try and reach an amiable arrangement.

"Our work has done a great deal of good," says Mrs. Goodwin. "Our thirty women are out constantly, saving girls in dance halls, parks, investigating fortune tellers, spiritualists, charlatans of all kinds."

"Yes, in my long years of social service I have never known a time when girls are so difficult to reach—so wild—giddy as now. It is because of the war and the free mixing of entertainers and relief workers in camps. Girls somehow are losing their domestic instincts."

LAST OF THREE MOHALL BANKS CLOSES DOORS

Heavy Withdrawal of Deposits Within Few Days is Cause of Closing

The First National bank of Mohall, the last of the three banks in the Renville county seat to remain open, is closed. It is hoped that the closing is only temporary and that arrangements may be made for reopening it later. The reason for the closing is stated to be an abnormal demand for withdrawal of deposits. The bank's assets amounting to 50 per cent of the checking accounts and a large amount in certificates of deposit, were presented for payment within a few weeks' time. Cooking For Two

Sister Mary Tells How To Prepare Meats

It is impossible to cook roasts of meat for only two persons. The roast must be cut so small that there is nothing to cook. A leg of lamb is out of the question or a fresh ham roast. A pork roast cut from the ribs is satisfactory as the roast may be cut any size required and roasted so many minutes per pound.

Instead of leg of lamb try a piece of the shoulder.

Roast Lamb
Two pounds cut from shoulder, 1-2 cup cracker crumbs, 1-4 cup soft stale bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, boiling water, 2 slices bacon. Have the bone removed from the meat. Cut through one side to make a flat piece. Mix crumbs with salt and pepper. Stir in butter and add just enough water to make moist. Spread over the meat. Roll and tie. Put in roaster, dredge with flour, and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Put the bacon on top of the roast. Put in a hot oven until the flour browns. Then add 1-4 cup boiling water, cover closely and roast 1 hour.

Ham Casserole
Three medium sized potatoes, 2 onions, 1 inch slice ham, salt, pepper, mustard, ginger. Put ham to soak in fresh cold water for one hour. Pare potatoes and slice very thin. Put a layer in buttered baking dish, cover with a layer of onions. Season slightly with salt and pepper. Cut the slice of ham in half and put one half in dish. Leave the fat on the meat. Sprinkle meat with a very little mustard and ginger. Add another layer of potatoes and onions, season and cover with ham. Sprinkle with mustard and ginger. Cover and bake 1 1-2 hours in a moderate oven. Serve with a simple salad and steamed fruit pudding.

Mock Filet Mignon
One-half pound round steak, 2 long slices bacon, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon pepper, milk. Have the meat chopped very fine with a little of the fat. Season with salt and pepper and add just enough milk to make moist enough to hold together. Form in small round cakes about as thick as the bacon is deep. Wrap a slice of bacon around each cake and fasten with tooth picks. Broil under the flame or pan broil in a hot frying pan. Serve garnished with parsley.

Branded! Veal Chops
Choose 6 chops cut from the loin. Roll in bread crumbs, dip in egg slightly beaten, roll in crumbs and fry quickly on both sides in hot drippings and butter. Pour over milk to cover, season with salt and pepper and cook in a slow oven for forty-five minutes.

Irish Stew For Two
One and one-half pounds of lamb cut from the fore-quarter, 3 potatoes, 2 onions, 2 carrots, 2 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper. Cut meat in cubes. Put in kettle, cover with boiling water, about three cups, and cook slowly until the meat begins to be tender. Add onions sliced, carrots sliced and potatoes cut in pieces the size of the meat cubes. Simmer until the meat and vegetables are tender. Season with salt and pepper and stir in the flour mixed in a smooth paste with a very little water. Serve with dumplings. LOVE AND HATE AKIN

(Letters to Lovers)
(By Winona Wilcox)

The girl who indulges in "petting parties" never can know what the best love is like. Perhaps she comes closest to it than the girl who dreams of love but "just hates" all the men she knows because they do not measure up to her dream heroes.

Far-reaching, indeed, are the ill results from the latter phobia. For example:

"I was to have been married in the spring," writes a desolated maiden. "The man I was engaged to asked to be released; he said that I am too cold, too unsympathetic."

"My half-sisters, years older than I, educated me. They both hate men. They think all men are conceited and deceitful. They called me silly because I let the man I was to marry put his arms around me."

"The fact is that I am extremely sensitive by nature, very affectionate and sympathetic, but I have been raised to conceal my feelings from men."

"The ideas of my sisters ruled me and caused me to act like a perfect stick when I was engaged. Therefore I have lost my love forever."

"My sisters say it is just as well, but my heart is broken."

"I actually envy the painted, chattering girl in a short skirt who knows what she wants in a mate and goes after it quite frankly."

Psychology explains why this poor girl's love affairs came to its sad finale. The story begins with her stern, stern, stern sisters. They hated men. Being partial, doubtless they taught the girl, while she was still a child, to be ashamed of her need to be loved and caressed. Thus she became unable to make a

Bismarck and Mandan high school football teams can furnish a wealth of material for an all-state high school football team, in the opinion of Coach Peter T. Swenson, of the Bismarck team, in response to a request from the Department of Physical Education, University of North Dakota, Coach Swenson has named an all-state high school eleven. Mr. Swenson says:

"Brown of Bismarck gets the choice at right wing. Although he weighs but 150 pounds, the player is a clever offensive player and is able to use his feet to advantage on both offense and defense. In catching passes, this player does not waste his ability. Under point is 'W. L. Bush'. As a defensive player he had no equal in handling himself at the line, and in turning in plays. Brown of Jamestown gets the choice of the other outposts. Although playing in the backfield, this player's work was so outstanding in character, so offensive, and so wisely, that to keep him off the field would be a deplorable act. So fine and valuable a player. He is a man of extraordinary speed for a high school player. He is a deadly tackler and a 'tower of strength' on defense.

"Porter of Mandan gets first choice at left tackle because of his experience, aggressiveness and all-around ability. In the Bismarck game, this player gave a remarkable demonstration of grit, playing the entire game with a broken rib and yet out-playing his opponent. He had the ability to out-guess the opponents and check their advance with more than ordinary skill and in spreading the opponent's offense and turning in the runner, he had no equal. Scott of Bismarck gets the choice on the other side of the line. Like Porter he is a 'gritty', aggressive and formidable linesman. This player played through the entire season with a fractured thumb and foot, and yet he was always on his feet and a 'deadly' tackler. He was seldom, in fact, never outplayed.

Valley City Man Named
"Wilder of Valley City gets first choice at guard. He proved a stumbling block for the Bismarck offense. He has weight, aggressiveness and a rare faculty of being at the right spot at the psychological moment. On the defense he was always on the play.

Health Brings Beauty A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN IS ALWAYS A WELL WOMAN

Health Is Most Vital to You. Read This.

St. Paul, Minn. "At different times I have taken Dr. Pierce's medicines and they proved very beneficial. I have taken the Favorite Prescription as a woman's tonic and found it very strengthening to the nervous system; and I have taken the Golden Medical Discovery as a blood purifier and a tonic to build me up when I was run-down. It also was very beneficial. These medicines of Dr. Pierce's are both very good and I would certainly take them again should I need such medicines knowing the great help they have been to me in the past."—Mrs. Aaron Martz, 700 E. 6th St.

either 'kniving' or 'charging' or pulling his opponent out, and a sure tackler. Lightly of Jamestown gets the honor on the other side of the line. Like Wiles, he was a tower of strength on offense and defense and no less able in every way than Wiles.

"Samuelson, Minot's rangy and charging center gets the choice. His passing was faultless and on defense he outcharged and outplayed Muir of Bismarck, a center of no ordinary ability. Against Bismarck, this player was Muir's entire defense. His experience, offensive and defensive work gives him undisputed choice to the honor. Williams of Mandan gets second choice and Muir of Bismarck, playing his first year of football, gets third choice.

"McDonald of Mandan gets first choice at Quarter. As a field general, this player stood far above his opponents, and as an offensive player, he was no less. As a kicker, he was good, punter, he stood out prominently. In the Bismarck game, this player's punting and drop-kicking won the game for his team. This player has the faculty of inspiring confidence in his team mates. To keep so capable an athlete and football man off the all-state high school selection is as logical as keeping Aubrey Devine off of an All-American College selection. He would direct the team on the field.

Kludt Is Named
"Kludt, Bismarck's fleet-footed, smashing and dodging back, gets the choice at right-half. As an open-field runner, he had no equal. He is also a good passer and kicker. Gray of Mandan gets first choice at left half.

"At fullback, Alfson of Bismarck gets the choice. Weighing 170 pounds and towering six feet, this player never failed to gain. As a line-smasher he had no equal. He was a 'battering-ram' on offense and a bulwark on defense. If called upon, he could pass and kick."

GRAND OPERA BY WIRELESS

Is Inaugurated Five Nights
Weekly By Mary Garden

Chicago, Dec. 1.—On long winter nights when the family gathers round the fireplace in some isolated, snow-bound farmhouse the members need not lack entertainment, for the air is full of music, short stories and gossip, free to everyone prepared to receive it.

Thousands of amateur wireless operators, experts say, are listening nightly to grand opera, bed-time stories, phonograph and band concerts, crop and weather reports and aerial gossip. Any wireless telegrapher set can, without additional equipment, pick up the radiophone messages and concerts.

With the inauguration of wireless grand opera by Mary Garden, director-general of the Chicago Opera Company, three hours entertainment is furnished five nights a week.

Telephone transmitters over the stage at the Auditorium Theater pick up the opera and transmit it over ordinary land wires to a wireless station on the roof of a skyscraper several blocks away, and from there is sent out broadcast to any one with the proper equipment to receive it. The company operating the station maintains three other broadcasting plants, one at Pittsburgh, Pa., one at Newark, N. J., and one at Springfield, Mass. The program of the Pittsburgh plant is typical of the others.

Early in the evening a bed-time story is read by the sending operator. The stories generally conclude about 15 minutes time. Next the weather and crop reports are announced, followed by a phonograph or band concert. This is the weekday schedule. On Sunday nights a specially prepared church sermon is sent.

As all the stations operate on different lengths, the amateur receivers can listen to all, one after another, by turning a small dial on their receiving sets.

The Chicago Opera service is the most ambitious program of all. At 7:30 o'clock, as the audience begins gathering at the Auditorium, the instruments are tested with a phonograph concert. A few minutes before 8 o'clock the "scader" announces the opera for the evening, the principal singers, the conductor, and then gives a brief synopsis of the first act, explaining the stage effects and scenery. At the end of each act a similar synopsis of the next scene is transmitted.

In the first test, when Samson and Delilah was sung, amateur stations have not only heard the orchestra and singers, but the clanking of the chains as Lucien Muratore, as Samson, paced his prison cell, and the storms of applause that marked each curtain call. The sounds were so clear that amplifying devices were unnecessary, ordinary receivers lying on the table at the receiving points spreading the music throughout the room.

NEW HAMPSHIRE SAYS COME EAST

Concord, N. H., Dec. 1.—Horace Greeley said "Go West, young man." Horace Greeley was a native of New Hampshire. Now New Hampshire is calling out to the middle west, "Come East." In Ohio last month the New Hampshire Board of Publicity started a campaign designed to persuade Ohioans to immigrate to this state and do their farming on the hills from which many of their ancestors departed in response to the great editor's advice.

Ohio was chosen as the first objective because, the board says, "it is the nearest of the four middle western states whose soil is fully occupied and which annually send forth settlers to unoccupied lands to their north and west and because its farm population is of the highest order." The campaign machinery was provided by the New Hampshire State Grange, which was stimulated by prizes donated by former Governor Rolland H. Spaulding.

THIN, FLAT HAIR GROWS LONG, THICK AND ABUNDANT

"Danderine" costs only 35 cents a bottle. One application ends all dandruff, stops itching and falling hair, and, in a few moments, you have doubled the beauty of your hair. It will appear a mass, so soft, lustrous, and easy to do up. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. "Danderine" is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. The result is full, stimulating, tonic—helps thin, lifeless, faded hair to grow long, thick, heavy and luxuriant.

Mrs. Janssen's experience of interest to childless wives.

Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are kind of children, and for a considerable time after we were married I feared I would not have any. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it strengthened me so I now have a nice, strong, healthy baby girl. I suffered very little at childbirth, and I give all the credit to your medicine, and shall always recommend it highly."—Mrs. H. H. JANSSEN, Millston, Wis.

Mrs. Held of Marinette, Wis., adds her testimonial for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She says:

Marinette, Wis.—"I was in a nervous condition and very irregular. My doctor advised an operation. My husband brought me one of your booklets and asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It overcame my weakness so that I now have a healthy baby girl after having been married nine years. I am glad to recommend your medicine, and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. H. B. HELD, 330 Jefferson St., Marinette, Wis.

There are many, many such homes that were once childless, and are now blessed with healthy, happy children because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored the mother to a strong and healthy condition, as it acts as a natural restorative for ailments as indicated by backache, irregularities, displacements, weakness and nervousness.

Women everywhere should remember that most of the commoner ailments of women are not the surgical ones—they are not caused by serious displacements or growths, although the symptoms may be the same, and that is why so many apparently serious ailments readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it acts as a natural restorative. It can be taken with perfect safety and often prevents serious troubles.

Therefore if you know of any woman who is suffering and has been unable to secure relief and is regretfully looking forward to a childless old age, ask her to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it has brought health and happiness into so many homes once darkened by illness and despair.
